VISION

To heal and comfort the suffering humanity with compassion and respect and to be recognized as a global leader in Nursing education and research.

MISSION

To provide exemplary and innovative education and research in nursing, fostering national and global health. We are dedicated to developing compassionate, skilled, and knowledgeable nursing professionals who will lead and improve healthcare worldwide.

WHAT WE'RE ALL ABOUT

Shardabai Pawar Institute of Nursing, Baramati is affiliated to Maharashtra State Board of Nursing and Paramedical Education, Mumbai and Indian Nursing Council, New Dehli The Institute of Nursing which started in 2004 has been upgraded to College of Nursing in 2020 with its first batch of B.Sc Nursing Degree which is affiliated to Maharashtra University of Health Science, Nashik.

The demand for nursing remains high, and projections suggest that such demand will substantively increase. Advances in health care technology, rising expectations of people seeking care, and reorganization of health care systems require a greater number of highly educated professionals. Demographic changes, such as large aging populations in many countries of the world, also fuel this demand.

The nurses of our institute are real polished gems and are making outstanding achievements all over the world by serving the patients with personal touch and from the core of their hearts following ethical values and culture of our Hospital. Our Institute of Nursing has the legacy of keeping highest standards of Nursing Care which are being appreciated not only in Baramati but all over the Maharashtra.

The Institute of Nursing is not only imparting Nursing Training but also inculcating human values and qualities to the Students. The College believes in providing nursing education based on scientific principles, sound educational theory and clinically sound practice in order to prepare clinically excellent, professionally qualified nurses who will work efficiently in all health care settings to meet the health needs of the society. Nurses are those divine hands, which bring healing touch to the suffering humanity. We emphasise on Human Touch, Compassionate Care and Loving Service to be the core of our Nursing Training.
